

Modern Acoustic Guitar

The guitarist David Sick plays bass, percussion and harmonies with only one guitar and is most convincing in his virtuoso finger technique which nothing compares to.

Performing as a soloist or together with Mara von Ferne, his filigree string art does not need any cheap showmanship and no excessive melodrama in order to seize hold of your auditory canals with its irresistible beauty.

Thomas Fellow, guitarist of the successful duo Friend'n Fellow is also most impressed by David Sick: "His music immediately captivated me and made me completely forget any other sound."

"An incredibly danceable music", wrote the journal FOLKER about his debut album "Industrial Blues" released with the Acoustic Music Records label.

Currently David Sick is on a concert tour in Germany with a most unusual programme: pieces by J. S. Bach, Michael Jackson and Martin Luther King as well as David's setting of the Big Bang 13.8 billion years ago are performed.
